THE MASSACRE AT THE CAVES ..AND HOW IT WAS AVENGED.

This is a story told by Mr. J. W. Cook and should have appeared in our biography of him published last week, but was crowded out for lack of space.

About this time two men came into Santa Cruz, one day, and reported the massacre of a party of emigrants by the Indians at a place about 100 miles away, called "The Caves."

A party of Texans had arrived at the Presidio a short time before and the Spanish officer offered them good pay to join a party of Mexican soldiers and form a party to scour the country and bury the dead, and a company of about 200, including Mr. Cook and forty-three other white men, started for The Caves.

There had been three or four families in the massacred party, including about a dozen children, and the entire party of thirty-five had been killed. The members of the party had not only been killed, but the bodies had been disfigured and mutilated in the most horrible manner imaginable. The sight caused the blood of the Americans of the party to rise to boiling point, and after burying the dead, they started, as Mr. Cook says, "Like fools to take the trail, sixty-six Mexicans and forty-three whites, for some of the Americans had returned to Santa Cruz."

They followed the trail into the White Mountains for seven days and nights. Just before getting to the Indian "Rancheria" the party had to pass through a narrow canyon, and while in there a party of Indians, probably unexpectedly to both parties, came on them from the rear, attacking them with showers of arrows and a few rifle shots from the canyon walls. Fortunately for the party attacked, the shots went over them, and turning in quick pursuit, they overtook the Indians and practically annihilated them. It was here that Mr. Cook was shot by a "dead Indian." He was approaching one of the Indians who had been wounded and was thought to be dead, when the supposed dead one raised himself into a sitting posture and shot an arrow into Mr. Cook's leg. So firmly was the barb imbedded in the flesh that it required two men to remove it by main force. The wound was, of course, painful, but did not cause the victim much loss of time or sleep. The Indian died like a Spartan. This fight occurred within sight of the smoke from the camp fires of the rancherie, but the Indians in the camp were taken completely by surprise. The attacking party swept through the place, killing and burning, like a whirlwind of blood and flame.

The cause of their easy victory was explained by the attacking party finding two or three kegs of rum in the camp with every evidence that its people had been on a grand carouse caused by the spirits they had captured from the massacred emigrants. The number of Indians killed was never known, but the rancherie was thoroughly destroyed, the victors driving off 1500 goats and sixty-five head of horses, while a great many guns were also captured.

The goats had been turned over to the Mexicans who got tired of their charges before the journey was ended and took but few of them back to the Presidio. Santa Cruz was not troubled with such regularity by the Indians after this occurrence, although the loss they sustained did not stop their raids, as indeed it was not until Gen. Crook brought the White Mountain Apaches to terms in the early '80's, that peace came to the border.

IN SOUTH AMERICA.

We naturally cherish the idea that ours is the only country wherein really great projects are capable of swift achievement. We know that great things are done in other countries, notably by England in the great irrigation works in Egypt, and the development of the "Dark Continent" generally, but usually these projects cover many years in accomplishment and we get into the habit of thinking that the United States is about the only country that can rush such great works through swiftly.

Last of all, perhaps, should we turn our eyes toward South America in search of great modern achievements But Dr. F. E. Clark, of Christian Endeavor fame, writes from Rio Janeiro, of the wonders accomplished in that city within the last three or four years. Naturally Rio Janeiro is one of the most beautiful sites in the world for a city, and notwithstanding its narrow streets and unsanitary condition in general, it has always ranked among the beautiful cities of the world. Dr. Clark, who has seen nearly all the large cities, writes now of Rio Janeiro with enthusiasm, not only because it is the most beautiful city he knows, but because its people have recently done so much to make it beautiful. For the purpose of creating a beautiful avenue in place of a narrow street, from March 8th, 1904 to November 15th, 1905, there were 590 houses, stores, buildings of all descriptions bought, condemned, demolished and paid for, right in the heart of the city, and the Avenue Central, one and an eighth mile long, was opened to the public. Before this avenue was opened the crowded condition of the buildings prevented the free movement of air through the city, and to this fact was largely due the prevalence of yellow fever. Now the new avenue opens up a pathway for the breeze from the sea to the mountains, greatly reducing the death rate, and adding immensely to the comfort of the people. The pavement is asphalted, in the center is a profusion of flowers, foliage plants and Brazil trees. On the sidewalks electric lights are fixed in great numbers in groups of ten abreast.

But the work on Aveneida Central is only a small part of the wonders accomplished. Other streets have been widened out in the same way, the whole scheme contemplating the making of over seven and three quarter miles of streets, the demolishing of 1100 buildings, and the expenditure of over twenty millions of dollars.

New wharves are also being built, so that proper facilities may be afforded for the commerce whose vessels, in constantly increasing number, are finding their way into one of the world's most beautiful and commodious harbors.

Telegraphers' Strike

The operators of the Western Union in Los Angeles left their keys on Wednesday evening because of what they claim was flagrant injustice in the discharge of "Johnnie" Ryan, a man twenty-seven years in the Western Union service. The telegraphers are conducting an orderly strike and their cause will not be hurt by the usual attendant strife that follows so many walkouts. They are a different class of men.

Board of Trade Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Trade will be held this (Saturday) evening at the city hall at 8 o'clock.

Berry Growers' Association

Strawberries are not coming in so freely as heretofore, the heaviest of the season being over. 1000 to 1200 cases a day are now being handled. For nine weeks, in the height of the season, the association handled twenty tons (8000 cases) a day. While the acreage in strawberries in this part of the valley has not increased, the association has handled a much larger crop than ever before, owing to the large acreage of the fruit around Burbank, which is handled here. The aggregate amount of money brought into the neighborhood will be about equal to that of last year, viz: $250,000; but the returns to the growers have not been so satisfactory, owing to the lower prices received.

Last year the association paid to the growers 5¼ cents per box, but the returns this year will fall below 5 cents. Last year, up to October 1st, only 123 tons had been sent to the cannery; this year 600 tons had been sent there up to July 1st. Cannery prices are not, of course, as satisfactory to the grower as prices received on the market, but when the appetite of the general public is appeased, the association must fall back on the cannery.

The lower prices received has been due to the increased supply of berries. Places that were buying of the Tropico-Glendale Association last year, have come into the market this year as producers. This is notably the case with San Diego, which was a good customer last year, but has this season begun to supply the home demand.

Last year up to October 1st, the close of the season, the assciation had purchased four million baskets; up to July 1st this year, they had bought five millions.

As showing the increase of the industry in general, a representative of the Los Angeles Basket Co. reports that this year seven million baskets have been sold outside the association up to July 1st, finding a market all the way from San Diego to Bakersfield.

Pasadena was a purchaser from the association last year to the extent of $65,000; not one tenth of that amount being received from there this year.

Fruit Shipments

At their packing house on Glendale avenue, Pinkham & McKeavitt are packing and shipping four or five carloads of Kelsey plums from La Canyada. It is very fine fruit and is being packed in five-pound baskets for the eastern market.

Business Change

Mr. L. Andrews has sold the Glendale Planing Mill to Messrs. J. W. and R. Z. Imler of Tropico, who will make extensive improvements in the plant.

Huntington Beach

The representation from Glendale at the Huntington Beach Camp Meeting has been very large, both Methodists and Presbyterians. Pastors Norton and Ward with their families have been there most of the time. The families Ayers, Lenox, Harrison, Ballentyne, Mrs. Volker, Mrs. and Miss Wood, Brown, Mrs. Haines, Mrs. Hendershott and others have been tenting in the camp, while many others have been down for a short time.

Dr. Torrey is known to all who are posted in the religious life of the country as the successor of Moody in the Chicago Avenue Church and the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. He has been around the world preaching to immense audiences with wondeful results. He visited on this tour, Australia, Tasmania, China, Japan, India Germany, England, Scotland, and Wales with wonderful audiences and multitudes of conversions.

In London the great Albert Hall that seats ten thousand people was filled day and night for two months to the utter surprise of the reporters, who had never seen that building taken for more than two weeks at a time by any amusement. They found that the Gospel draws better than any other thing.

Dr. Torrey refused to accept an invitation to return to England that he might fill this engagment at Huntington Beach. He is clear, simple, able, and powerful as a preacher. His great excellence is found in the fact that he is a man of faith and prayer. There are many conversions taking place at the services where Dr. Torrey preaches and at the services of prayer and preaching where he is not present, but the great result of his labors may be looked for in the work of the churches during the year.

GLENDALE, CAL., AUGUST 10, 1907

Standard Oil officials are quoted as saying that the fine imposed by Judge Landis will never be paid.

Maybe not; but they will have to put some of their hard-earned dollars into circulation in evading it.

In Texas

Last week a man passing through Texas on a train thoughtlessly took a drink from a flask of whiskey without consulting the statutes. He was arrested and paid a fine of ten dollars, being let off easy on account of his being a stranger.

Affairs are getting pretty serious when a man is required to get a lawyer's opinion before quenching his thirst from his own private quencher.

At Last

John A. Benson, charged with conspiracy to defraud the government in land matters is on trial in San Francisco. Thirty years ago, in Mendocino County, we ran across the operations of this wholesale timber thief, who has for all these years pursued his criminal career. Truly "The mills of the gods grind slowly," but there is comfort in the thought: "With exactness grind they all."

In San Francisco

We do not hear so much about the San Francisco street car strike as we did at one time, but that it has been peacefully settled is an erroneous idea.

Last Sunday night a street car was nearly demolished by a mob out near Ingleside, and a motorman waylaid and fatally shot.

A dispatch says that the night attack and the murder were the culmination of a number of attacks made during the day. Which shows that the gentle "strike sympathizer" is siill at work in that afflicted city by the Golden Gate.

Lemon Orchards

The Hollywood Citizen calls attention to abandoned lemon groves in that vicinity, and emphasizes the mistake to which they testify.

This applies to Glendale as well. There will be a demand for lemons when town lots are a drug on the market. The lemon tree, however, is difficult to kill, and neglected orchards, if the trees are not too far gone, will readily respond to proper care. They should be pruned down to the live wood and in light soil fertilized. They should not be irrigated late in the season, unless the locality is immune from froats severe enough to injure new growth, as the young shoots are very sensitive.

The Los Angeles Times, on the first day of August last, celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of the purchase of that paper by Gen. Harrison Gray Otis. From a small beginning, the Times has pushed to the front rank among the newspapers of the world; and it always has been and continues to be one of the most potent factors in the upbuilding of Southern California.

The Times has not been infallible in its opinions and positions in regard to public questions, but its convictions have been backed up by courage and it has never been among the weak, wobbly and spineless in journalism; a fact which the people have recognized and appreciated.

We congratulate our big contemporary.

The New Political League

The Lincoln-Roosevelt League of California has been organized with Hon. Frank R. Devlin of Vallejo as president. The expressed purpose of the League is to drive the railroad bosses, Herrin, Parker and others, out of the control of the Republican party in this state.

We are not informed as to the methods which the League proposes to employ, and we can only hope that it will be successful.

Mr. Devlin is an able, energetic and independent Republican with a good record in the legislature.

The necessity for a reform within the ranks of the Republican party, which is now dominated entirely by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, is apparent to anyone familiar with our political history. If the Democratic party was in power, the dominance of the railroad would be just as evident. We are satisfied that no reform can come through any new party, but if there is enough of the spirit of genuine reform in the Republican party; if the patriotic spirit which animates the large majority of its members can be aroused to intelligent and energetic action, we may hope to see the party once more demonstrating the fact that it is "Of the people and for the people."

Childs Avenue, et al.

The Independent last week copies our article of the previous week on Childs avenue, with criticisms that are just as well founded as is customary with our contemparary. The following is a sample:

"The opening of the street is a matter that should be settled by the land owners in the district to be affected, and the article in the News was evidently intended to mislead people in order that certain parties might get a fat fee for publishing and engineering work."

Presumably the NEWS is the party that is to get a fat fee for publishing. But the editor of the NEWS is the unfortunate (or otherwise) owner of some acres of land in the proposed assessment district, which if assessed at $45 per acre for the expense, as the Independent asserts is proposed, would make it cost him several hundred dollars in order to secure that fat advertising plum of ten or fifteen dollars!

We are willing to give a premium consisting of a beautiful chromo (from original photographs) representing the Passing of Ananias, Baalam and the Ass, or any other chaste and appropriate subject, for a real good "fat" job in the advertising line; but there is a limit beyond which our generous instincts fail to lead, and $45 per acre is beyond the limit.

Seriously, tho; we do believe that the Gates of Pearl will never open to the chronic kicker who refuses habitually to draw upon his supply of gray matter, and overworks the bile ducts instead!

Standard Oil

Close upon the act of Judge Landis, imposing a fine of $29,240,000 upon the Standard Oil Company, comes a very interesting and exhaustive report upon the affairs of the company, by Commissioner of Corporations Herbert K. Smith.

This report refutes tne argument made most commonly by the defense, that the great monopoly has been the cause of providing the public with its products at a lower price than could any independent concern.

Mr. Smith says: "The Standard has not reduced margins during the period in which it has been responsible for the price of oil. During the last eight years it has raised both prices and margins."

This refers to the margin of profit, and the report shows that the public has not been allowed to benefit by any deerease in the price paid oil producers, nor in the lessened cost of the manufactured article due to a splendid system which is constantly cutting down waste and reducing cost; in all cases the increased margin has been made to benefit solely the few individuals who control the "system."

The report says: "Its profits are far above the highest possible standard of a reasonable commercial return, and have been steadily increasing."

Mr. Smith says that a profit of ¼ of a cent per gallon would represent the average profits of business, but that the actual profits of the Standard Company have been on an average 2 3-10 cents per gallon.

The statement is made that since its organization in 1872, the profits of the trust have been over $700,000,000. The dividends paid in 1905 amounted to $39,335,320, and in 1901 a dividend was declared aggregating $46,800,000. The Standard does nine-tenths of the petroleum business of the United States.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Temple, of Third and Orange streets, are the happy parents of a daughter who arrived this week. When old enough she will respond to the name of Marjorie May.

An additional attraction at the Glendale Library will be found in a case of about fifty choice books loaned by a society of Daughters of the King connected with an Episcopal church of Los Angeles.

Capt. Mock took over to Catalina Sunday last, some friends from Los Angeles, Frank Schwemer, W. A. Talbott and Emile Parker. They had the usual pleasant voyage and returned full of fish stories and praise of their gallant host and captain.

A party was given in honor of J. J. Sturgeon at the residence of Mr. H. L. Legrand on Third street, last Tuesday evening. There were about twenty present who thoroughly enjoyed themselves. Refreshments were served and the party closed at a late hour.

Mrs. Raymond E. Chase was the hostess last Wednesday evening at a dinner given in honor of Miss Lucile Bush from Kentucky. Miss Bush will be the house guest of Mrs. Chase next week. The guests present were Miss Bush, Miss Grace Pirtle, Dr. Arnold and Mr. Frank Hutton.

When Mr. Gavin Young of Lomita Park, returned on the 9:15 car Wednesday evening to his home, he was surprised to find on his front door step, a lady in black who was an entire stranger to him and who did not seem entirely coherent in her explanitions. She finally made it understood that she was Miss Nettie Goodrich of Long Beach and was in search of a Mrs. Brown who once lived in the neighorhood. She eventually disappeared and is supposed to have returned to Los Angeles.

POPULAR TEACHER.

Miss Mary Doyle, one of the most popular teachers in the Tropico schools the past three years, has resigned her position as instructor in the primary department, where she achieved so much success, and has accepted a position as musical director in the schools at Covina. The patrons and pupils of the Tropico schools are loath to have Miss Doyle sever her amicable relations.

MARS.

FOURTH PAPER.

(By a Special Contributor.)

Notwithstanding the positive assertion of Schiaparelli, Perrotin, Lowell and many other well-konwn astronomers, who have all seen the canals on Mars many times under varying conditions, there are many astronomers, equally well-known, whose integrity and ability are beyond dispute, who say that under the most favorable conditions, and with the finest instruments, they cannot see them, or even anythinglike them. As Sir Robert Ball says in his "Popular Guide to the Heavens:" "Observers of Mars are divided into two camps—those who see the canals, and those who do not. The former are in the strong position that they are perfectly sure they see what they represent in their drawings; the latter declare that under the finest possible conditions, and with the most perfect apparatus, they can see nothing resembling the straight markings known as canals.' Mr. Lowell has recently published a second book on the planet Mars, describing the continuation of his work at the Flagstaff observatory. In reviewing his book a writer in "Nation," for April, 1907, sums up as follows:

"The foundation of Mr. Lowell's argument rests upon an extremely slender basis of appearances to be made out only with the greatest difficulty. The ancient maxim that things are not what they seem may very well be taken to heart in forming our judgment. . . Granting the reality of the appearances, the interpretation of them in any special way is purely hypothetical. There are probably many conditions and possibilities on Mars, of which we are quite ignorant, among which, it may be, could be found natural causes to account for the phenomena."

It must be admitted, on reviewing the whole subject, that the opponents of the canal theory do not bring forward any convincing argument in support of their position, and as they cannot, in the very nature of the case adduce any facts on their side, as all they can aver is that they fail to see the phenomena, it becomes evident that their opposition is purely polemical and unscientific.

Mr. Lowell has now continued his observations without break for over twelve years, during all of which time he and his untiring corps of assistants have had the planet Mars under observation. This period covers six Martian years; and they have seen the same phenomena regularly repeated with each season and, therefore, they see no reason to recede from their first conclusions, but on the contrary, each year only confirms them in their original belief. The recent near approach of Mars to the earth has given rise to a renewal of the discussion of this question, and quite a number of interesting articles may be found in some of our popular magazines setting forth the work of Professor Lowell and other workers in this field of inquiry. About the best for general readers is that in McClure's for April, 1907. Other interesting articles on the same subject's may be found in the "Nation," April 4th, 1907. "Outlook, April 18th, 1907, and "Current Literature," February 1907. The concensus of opinion in all these articles is favorable to Mr. Lowell's theory that what we see in Mars is in very truth the working out of a gigantic system of irrigation, which is absolutely necessitated by the scarcity of water on that planet, on condition to which all planets must eventually come in time. In the moon we see the process actually completed. No water at all, no atmosphere, no clouds, no life. There are, however, reasons for believing that no life has ever appeared on the moon, as already stated. In Mars, on the other hand, we appear to find evidence of the existence of life driven by stern necessity to the development of its highest powers of engineering skill to conserve the slowly disappearing element without which life in any form is impossible. The readers of the News shall be kept informed of any further development in this most interesting subject. Our news shall be not only of our own locality, our own country, or our own planet even, but shall embrace news from all parts of the universe.

X-RAY.

CHURCH CHOIR ENTERTAINS.

One of the most delightful as well as recherche social events of the past week was the musical given by the choir of the Methodist church to the young people of the church, at the residence of Mrs. Alfred Engelhardt, Wednesday evening. A most interesting musical program was rendered by Mr. George Graves, director of the choir, ably assisted by the members of the choir. Several anthems were rendered, after which Miss Flora Chandler sang one of Charles Peckham's latest songs. Miss Chandler's sweet, flexible voice in this latest composition was much enjoyed. Mr. Peckham rendered a number of piano solos, as did Mr. H. A. Goodwin. Mrs. S. G. Biddle responded with a brilliant violin selection with Miss Myrtle Harrison as accompanist. Mr. Joy Goodsell delighted all with his flute recitations. Mrs. S. G. Biddle also gave a reading. At the close of the program the choir gathered in a tent, which had been pitched in one corner of the music room, and after the lights were turned off a small candle was lighted, and Miss Pearl Harrison, in hunting costume, standing at the entrance to the tent, while the choir were seated in the background, sang "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground," the choir joining in the chorus. Another musical number, which appealed to all, as well as the manner of rendition, was "Mustered Out," in which the entire company joined. A musical guessing contest also added to a pleasant evening. Mrs. Engelhardt and the choir's guests included about fifty of the young people of the church.

MISS SEAMAN FETED.

Miss Kathryn Seaman, who attained her eighteenth anniversary, Sunday, was the charming guest of honor at a pretty dinner party given by Mrs. William Harvey, jr., at her bungalow, on Tropico avenue. The center of the table was graced by a large bowl overflowing with a myriad of dainty sweet pea blossoms, while dainty ferns were trailed over the damask. Covers were laid for fourteen. Following the dinner a charming conversazione was enjoyed by the guests. Music also furnished a pleasing diversion.

MRS. GOODWIN ENTERTAINS.

Mrs. H. A. Goodwin, who has but recently moved into her new home on Park avenue, entertained a coterie of friends from her former home at Peoria, Illinois, who are visiting in Los Angeles. Mrs. Goodwin's guests included Mrs. E. B. Studer and daughter, Mrs. M. L. Hoffman, Mrs. H. Mohaunah and Miss Hazey Mohaunah, Mrs. R. T. Uekena and Miss Luella Uekena, Mrs. H. Neihause and Miss Illine Neihause, Miss Minnie Adams and Miss Lena Keferer.

MISS DAVENPORT ENTERTAINS.

Miss Blanche Davenport most charmingly entertained a coterie of friends at her home on Glendale avenue, Wednesday evening, complimentary to her house guest, Miss Bessie Snavely. Which furnished a most pleasing diversion. Miss Evalena Ayers also sang in a most delightful style a number of her most popular solos. Miss Davenport's guests included Misses Faith Sence, Evalena Ayers, Messrs. Victor La Mont, Albert Marple, Lester Welton and Ray Goode.

MRS. AYERS' DINNER.

Mrs. Samuel Ayers was hostess at a dinner, dainty in all its appointments, at her home, Thursday. Bright hued carnations and ferns graced the table and covers were laid for Rev. and Mrs. D. M. Stuart, Mrs. D. Jennison, Mrs. J. D. Botts, Mrs. Albert Dow, Mrs. T. W. Doyle, Mrs. K. H. Wilson and Mrs. J. R. Meyers.

MRS. STORY'S DINNER.

Thursday Mrs. Warren Story entertained with a dinner complimentary to Mrs. D. W. Fox, who is the house guest of Mrs. Nathan Burlingham, of "Rose Villa." Other guests of Mrs. Story included Mrs. Nathan Burlingham and Miss Rush Burlingham.

Mrs. M. Ogden Ryan and Miss Evelyn Ryan returned the first of the week from a pleasant sojourn at Long Beach. Mrs. Ryan and Miss Ryan are contemplating a trip to Avalon, the first of the week.

LIBRARY NOTICE.

The Glendale Library and Reading Room is open to the public on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday from 1 to 6 o'clock.

MABEL PATTERSON, Librarian.

Farm and Garden

There is too much good land lying idle in this vicinity; too many neglected orchards and by far too large a crop of weeds. There are not many neglected orchards, possibly, but every one neglected is one too many.

Fruit and vegetables which were once raised in great quantities in Glendale, are not now grown here in amount sufficient to supply the home demand and our people buy at the grocers those staples which are shipped out from Los Angeles.

As August approaches, the thrifty gardener begins to plan for the fall planting. Vegetables in general will prove a disappointment if planted at this season, but as the weather conditions are never exactly the same, comparing one year with another, experiments are worth trying. You may succeed one year and fail the next, and be unable to account for the difference in results.

Everyone who has the ground to devote to the purpose and water to thoroughly irrigate it, should raise a crop of fall potatoes. In localities subject to early frost, the planting should not be done later than the middle of August, as three months should be counted on for the maturing of the crop; and in the sections referred to, frost is liable to occur by the middle of November.

The ground should be blocked out and thoroughly soaked and plowed when it is just in the proper condition. Potatoes which have been out of the ground for a considerable time should be used for the planting. They will sprout more readily than those lately dug. Some farmers think that home grown seed does not do so well as that from other sections, but there is no good reason for this idea, except perhaps the fact that the imported seed is likely to be older and nearer the sprouting condition. The fall crop, if a good stand is secured, is likely to give better results than one planted in the spring; weeds are not so likely to interfere and the potatoes will keep better than those grown during the heat of summer.

STRAWBERRY PLANTING

August is the best month in the year in which to set out strawberry plants. They will bear a small crop by Thanksgiving and be in good condition for bearing the next spring. Set in the fall, they do not have such a tendency to make runners as do the plants set out in the spring.

A great many varieties have been tried in California, but it has been pretty well demonstrated that the Brandywine is about the best for market purposes that has yet been tried, altho the lately introduced Klondyke gives some promise of superseding it. The latter is a very early berry, a vigorous grower, prolific and of excellent quality.

Such vegetables as lettuce, turnips and onions may be planted with a reasonable hope of success, as may any other vegetable which will reach maturity in ninety days.

I'd kick real hard—and quit!

A difficult critter to class;
He may reach to the span
